The Portfolio Performance Assessment for Teaching (PPAT)

Learn about how this evidence-centered assessment offers programs performance indicators of their students' teaching effectiveness in the classroom. Candidates complete the one formative and three summative tasks that make up PPAT throughout the course of their student teaching experience. The ongoing feedback, task by task, provides a comprehensive picture of a candidate's growth and potential for classroom success. Attendees are asked to email Kathy Pruner at kpruner@ets.org for pre-session planning.
